to keep us connected to family, friends and loved ones, as well as being a source of online learning and fun. Children learn constantly about the necessity to keep themselves safe online and how they should be doing that. Prior to schools closing, there was a greater focus on internet safety and cyber-bullying, this newsletter shows examples of the work being done by our children across Banbury. Whilst some children have had access to school over the last few weeks, the majority haven't; we understand the difficulties of trying to keep your children happy, safe and at the same time, educated and occupied. We hope that you have managed to accomplish this, but if you do have concerns about online safety and where to go for advice, we have provided a list of resources for you.

Monday 10th February 2020 LQ:What are five steps to healthy internet usage? My 5 steps to healthy internet usage! What you will need: 1.Make sure the app that your on is made for your age not any higher,
2. Remember to ask a parent for permission otherwise don't download the app.
3.If someone texts you and you don't know or they have your number immediately alert your parents don't text them back,
4. Never post pictures with information on them because hackers and bullies can find out where you are and where you live,
5.If you are worried about you being online, you can ask your parents for help and they can ask them to put a special mode that will keep you safe. If you follow these 5 steps you will be happier in life and be safe with your family! Thank you!
